

To make this banner you pick four colors of either fabric or wood pendants you have painted. One color should be assigned to each area of personal development. They can be colors the child has chosen. Each time a child completes a goal you add a pendant to the banner. The banner will continue to grow until the child graduates from high school. You can just keep alternating the four colors the child chose.